The following from the Greenfield Republican Holiday Issue 1902-1903

DR. B. H. EDWARDS.

As the years go by all classes of people recognize more and more clearly the importance of attending to their teeth. The carelessness which existed in this matter is gradually disappearing principally for two reasons: the absence of pain in dental operations effected by modern methods, and the low prices at which work is done. It is not very long since the extracting and filling of teeth inspired the wretched sufferer with a fear similar to that experienced by suspects condemned to the torture. But a short time since, people in poor circumstances could not afford to have their teeth properly attended to. Now all this is changed. The use of local anæsthetics, administered without the least danger, have entirely conquered pain, and the great improvements effected in dental instruments, processes and necessary adjuncts have reduced the cost of dental operations to a minimum.

Dr. B. H. Edwards has taken advantage of all these things, and with his knowledge of general medicine and expert knowledge of odontology he has treated hundreds of our citizens with entire satisfaction. In the mechanical portion of his profession he has gained considerable renown. Many of the most beautiful sets of teeth which are the delight and luxury of many of our citizens were constructed in his well equipped workshop. As a rapid extractor of aching teeth he is unexcelled, and his filling has never yet been criticized. We cannot do better than advise those suffering from teeth ailments to consult Dr. Edwards at once.
